Numb. 15185.

The London Gazette.

Published by Authority.

From Saturday September 21, to Tuesday September 24, 1799.

Weſtminſter, September 24, 1799.

THIS Day His Majeſty came to the Houſe of Peers, and being in His Royal Robes, ſeated on the Throne with the uſual Solemnity, Sir Francis Molyneaux, Gentleman Uſher of the Black Rod, was ſent with a Meſſage from His Majeſty to the Houſe of Commons, commanding their Attendance in the Houſe of Peers. The Commons being come thither accordingly, His Majeſty was pleaſed to make the following moſt gracious Speech:

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I have called you together at this unuſual Seaſon, in order to recommend it to you to conſider of the Propriety of enabling Me without Delay to avail Myſelf to a further Extent of the voluntary Services of the Militia, at a Moment when an Encreaſe of Our active Force Abroad may be productive of the moſt important and beneficial Conſequences.

We have ſeen the happy Effects of the Meaſure which you adopted on this Subject in the laſt Seſſion; and the Forces which I was thereby enabled to employ have already diſplayed, in the Face of the Enemy, a Courage, Diſcipline, and Steadineſs, worthy of the Character of Britiſh Soldiers.

In the ſhort Interval ſince the Cloſe of the laſt Seſſion Our Situation and Proſpects have, under the Bleſſing of Providence, improved beyond the moſt ſanguine Expectation. The Abilities and Valour of the Commanders and Troops of the Combined Imperial Armies have continued to be eminently diſplayed. The Deliverance of Italy may now be conſidered as ſecured by the Reſult of a Campaign, equal in Splendour and Succeſs to any the moſt brilliant recorded in Hiſtory; and I have had the heartfelt Satisfaction of ſeeing the Valour of My Fleets and Armies ſucceſsfully employed to the Aſſiſtance of My Allies, to the Support of Our juſt Cauſe, and to the Advancement of the moſt important Intereſts of the Britiſh Empire.

The Kingdom of Naples has been reſcued from the French Yoke, and reſtored to the Dominion of its lawful Sovereign, and My former Connections with that Power have been renewed.

The French Expedition to Egypt has continued to be productive of Calamity and Diſgrace to Our Enemies, while its ultimate Views againſt Our Eaſtern Poſſeſſions have been utterly confounded. The deſperate Attempt which they have lately made to extricate themſelves from their Difficulties has been defeated by the Courage of the Turkiſh Forces, directed by the Skill, and animated by the Heroiſm of a Britiſh Officer, with a ſmall Portion of My Naval Force under his Command; and the Overthrow of that reſtleſs and perfidious Power, who, inſtigated by the Artifices, and deluded by the Promiſes of the French, had entered into their ambitious and deſtructive Projects in India, has placed the Britiſh Intereſts in that Quarter in a State of ſolid and permanent Security.

The Vigilance, Deciſion, and Wiſdom of the Governor-General in Council on this great and important Occaſion, and the tried Abilities and Valour of the Commanders, Officers, and Troops employed under his Direction, are entitled to My higheſt Praiſe.

There is, I truſt, every Reaſon to expect that the Effort which I am making for the Deliverance of the United Provinces will prove ſucceſsful. The Britiſh Arms have reſcued from the Poſſeſſion of the Enemy the principal Port and Naval Arſenal of the Dutch Republic; and although we have to regret the Loſs of many brave Men in a ſubſequent Attack againſt the Enemy, whoſe Poſition enabled them to obſtruct our Progreſs, I have the ſtrongeſt Ground to expect that the Skill of My Generals, and the determined Reſolution and Intrepidity of My Troops, and of thoſe of My Allies, will ſoon ſurmount every Obſtacle; and that the Fleet which, under the uſurped Dominion of France, was deſtined to co-operate in the Invaſion of theſe Iſlands, may ſpeedily, I truſt, under its antient Standard, partake in the Glory of reſtoring the Religion, Liberty, and Independence of thoſe Provinces ſo long in intimate Union and Alliance with this Country.

While you rejoice with Me in the Events which add ſo much Luſtre to the Britiſh Character, you will, I am perſuaded, as cordially join in the Sentiments ſo juſtly due to the Conduct of My good and faithful Ally the Emperor of Ruſſia; to his Magnanimity and Wiſdom directing to ſo many Quarters of Europe the Force of his extenſive and powerful Empire, We are, in a great Degree, indebted for the Succeſs of Our own Efforts, as well as for the rapid and favorable Change in the general Situation of Affairs. I have directed Copies to be laid before you of thoſe Engagements, which have conſolidated and cemented a Connection ſo conſonant to the permanent Intereſts of My Empire, and ſo important at the preſent Moment to every Part of the civilized World.

Gentlemen of the Houſe of Commons,

The ample Supplies which you have granted to Me in the Courſe of the laſt Seſſion, will, I truſt, ſo nearly provide for the Exigencies of the Public Service, even on the extenſive Scale which Our preſent Operations require, as to enable Me, without further Aid, to continue thoſe Exertions to the Cloſe of the preſent Year:—but in order to afford you the Convenience of a longer Receſs, I recommend it to you to conſider of providing for the Expence which will be neceſſary in the early Part of the enſuing Year; and with this View I have ordered the proper Eſtimates to be laid before you.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

In purſuance of your Recommendation, I judged it proper to communicate to My Two Houſes of Parliament in Ireland at the Cloſe of their laſt Seſſion, the Sentiments which you had expreſſed to Me reſpecting an incorporating Union with that Kingdom. The Experience of every Day confirms Me in the Perſuaſion that ſignal Benefit would be derived to both Countries from that important Meaſure; and I truſt that the Diſpoſition of My Parliament there will be found to correſpond with that which you have manifeſted for the Accompliſhment of a Work which would tend ſo much to add to the Security and Happineſs of all My Iriſh Subjects, and to conſolidate the Strength and Proſperity of the Empire.
